The Bree Collaborative
Colorectal Cancer Charter and Roster

Problem Statement
Colorectal cancer is the fourth most common cancer diagnosed in the United States with about 4.2% of men and women being diagnosed at some point in their lifetime.¹ Currently, the US Preventive Services Task Force recommends to start screening for colorectal cancer at age 50, with some risk factors such as a family history indicating earlier screening.² In Washington State of adults aged 50-75, only 63% with commercial insurance and 43% with Medicaid received screening, with variation by county.³

Aim
To develop best practice recommendations for colorectal cancer screening including:

- Review of guidelines for age to begin and end screening
- Screening modalities
- Use of anesthesia during screening

Purpose
To propose evidence-based recommendations to the full Bree Collaborative on:

- Defining care delivery ...
- Standard evaluation ...
- Addressing health disparities (geographic?)
- Process and patient outcome metrics.
- Addressing barriers to integrating recommendations into current care systems.
- Identifying other areas of focus or modifying areas, as needed.
